TRAINING METHODOLOGY

The constructivist methodology used in our Certified Export Manager Training allows our participants to take an active role in their learning process by applying concepts and tools to build and adapt their own strategies continuously.

In this way, we not only encourage the interaction of our participants with our team of consultants and experts but also among themselves with the objective of forming a network of experts in different areas and with different backgrounds, which in turn empowers them to lead to an enriched discussion of relevant topics to address current market demands comprehensively.

At the same time, the Certified Export Manager Training offers participants a space to make their own decisions and provides them with the necessary flexibility to develop the skills and competencies to build their future professional life.

Our team accompanies the training with parallel coaching sessions, which are essential for developing an Export Plan for a given product or service, as well as for the design of an Internationalization Plan for a respective organization in a real setting.
