The 2008 world financial crisis and the subsequent European debt crisis accelerated the shift of economic and political influence from Western countries towards fast growing emerging economies such as Brazil, China, India, Russia, and South Africa. The G10 became the G20 and country representation at the IMF is likely to change. Thus, the time seems right to address anew the role of emerging economies in globalized financial markets and discuss their participation, interests and responsibilities in a financially globalized world at the 4th Annual Conference of the Graduate School „Global Financial Markets“.
